Irish Newspaper Archives

"The gateway to Ireland's rich historical past"

Welcome to Irish Newspaper Archives the world's largest online database of Irish Periodicals. Through the Irish Newspaper Archives gateway our members gain access to over 300 years of Irish History. Search, retrieve and read through over 8 million pages of Irish newspaper titles with publications from nearly every county in the country. Irish Newspaper Archives is a national database of newspapers with content that is not available through any other resource in the world.

Gain access to a wide and varied publications list; The Freemans Journal (1763 to 1924), The Irish Independent (1905 to current), The Belfast Newsletter (1738 to current) and many more titles.

Our members can now research the events that shaped the Republic Of Ireland, moments such as the Act of the Union, the 1916 Easter rising, the Irish civil war to the Good Friday agreement leading to peace on our great island.

Ireland although small has impacted on the world's countries through large scale emigration. Research family history through the world's largest online database of Irish historical documents.

How it works:

Search The Archives

Enter keywords such as names, places or events relating to your search and apply filters including newspaper and date range to further refine your search queries.

Article Window

Open individual articles in the Article Window and you can print, email, download or even post to social media including Facebook and Twitter.

Browse The Archives

Use the sliders and drop down menus to quickly jump to any edition in the archive. Then simply select the edition and view the newspaper exactly as it appeared on the day. With INA's Viewer you quickly thumb through the newspaper as you would the real thing.
