SNOW HINDERS TEST

"Sunday Independent" Reporter

A LL the suspense, all the heart-breaking lastminute efforts that ever went into the biggest stage production in Ireland are small compared to to-night's opening of Telefis Eireann at 7 p.m.

FOUR OF FAMILY BURNED

HOUR members of a Clondalkin family were taken to hospital yesterday with burns received in a fire outbreak at their home.

They were Mr. Leo T. Ferris, his wife Martha, and Patrick (21).

Last night the condition of Patrick, who is in Our Lady's Hospital, Crumlin, was stated to be "very serious".

Mrs. Ferris and Malachy. who were taken to Dr. Steeven's Hospital, were stated to be "fairly comfortable", and Mr. Ferris was under observation at the hospital.

Another brother, Bernard, aged 14, was treated for shock at home.

Decorations ablaze Apparently the outbreak occurred when an oil heater was overturned and the flowing oil caught fire and set fire to the Christmas decorations. In their efforts to bring the family to safety, the parents were burned.

Screams from the house brought neighbours rushing to help, and by the time the Fire Brigade arrived, the voluntary helpers had the blaze extinguished by throwing snow and slush on it. The arrival of the brigade at the scene was delayed by the icy conditions of the icy work at this fire

TATER froze into icicles when Dundalk Fire Brigade yesterday evening fought a fire in a partly thatched farmhouse owned by Mrs. J. King at Grange. Knockbridges

The brigade, taking water 200 yards with two hoses. confined the fire to the thatched kitchen and saved two bedrooms and a number of rooms in a twostoreved building adjoining. The fire was under control in an hour.

POLICE KNEW ALL ABOUT IT

A road bridge over a disused railway track near the border was blown up by gelignite yesterday afternoon-but it was done with full approval of the police. It was on the main Derry - Buncrana Road two miles on Derry side of the border and was part of a road improvement scheme.

BOY (7) SPENT NIGHT IN LIFT Reported missing by his parents on Friday night Martin Walker (7) of Plane Tree Road, West Bromwich, was found by a workman yesterday in a lift at a block of eight-story flats near his Martin had apparently wandered into the flats, entered the lift late at night and yas unable to release himself. He was unharmed

Look at what happened. For two hours engineers tried to get to the summit of Kippure through six-feetdeep snow drifts to begin yesterday's test transmissions. They dug their way through and the testcard was beamed at 1 p.m. and continued through the Last night five technicians stayed on Kippure in the comfortable accommodation provided especially for extreme winter weather.

Tiny studio

At Montrose studios I saw some of the great difficulties under which the service is being started.

In a tiny studio—the only one completed—twelve technicians were preparing it as an oratory in which Most Rev. Dr. J. C. McQuaid Archbishop of Dublin, will give Benediction at 7.08 this evening. To get to and from the studio they move through a corridor in which painters and electricians are still working. They have had to rush so much that the protective sacking round the camera cables has not yet been removed.

In many ways the men and women of Telefis Eireann are preparing to put out a programme in the same conditions as if the Theatre Royal were to put on a show in a half-built building.

Newsroom: calm'

In the newsroom -I found comparative calm. The staff -all of them ex-newspapermen -are quite accustomed to work at hectic pressure and although they are preparing to service both sound and television news they haven't got into the state of flap which seems so obvious at Montrose in other technical departments. In the big newsroom that is the last word in modernity. the staff work to a well-drilled routine which is merely the transfer of newspaper newsroom technique to television. If you enjoy to-night's inaugural programme you should give thanks to all the new staffs of Telefis Eireann who have in many instances worked 14-hour days for many

If there are hitches—as well there might - remember that the programme has been produced in most difficult conditions.

If it shows, rains or drizzles to-night the Artane Boys' Band will be in shelter.

A tubular steel and canvasroofed stand has been provided for them outside the Gresham Hotel in O'Connell Street. From the stand they will 'play-in" the New Year.
