TRAFFIC UNION.

The Joint Superintendent of the Great Southern and Western Railways (the late Mr. Charles H. J. O'Connell), in a letter to the shareholders of the Western Railway, states that the traffic in connection with the railways is now at the highest point ever reached, and that the company is unable to cope with the demand. The letter states that the company is engaged in a large-scale expansion of its system, and that it is confident that the traffic will continue to increase in the future.

THE O'CONNELL TRIBUTE.

A resolution has been passed by the Board of Directors of the Western Railway, expressing the deepest sympathy with the family of the late Mr. Charles H. J. O'Connell, and that the company will do everything in its power to assist the family in their present difficulty. The resolution states that the company is deeply impressed with the services of Mr. O'Connell, and that it will do everything in its power to assist the family in their present difficulty.
